Newsletter Editor's Report

After a few months of preparatory work last fall, the new method for posting newsletter pieces is now underway. Articles have been submitted at a fairly steady rate taking advantage of the fact that they will be posted quickly. Future articles can continue to announce upcoming exhibits, collections received or processed, new resources for researchers, staff changes and any thing else about your repository or constituency in which you think our section might have an interest. No need to hold them either; please send the articles as soon as they are ready and we will include them in the issue "under construction." Also, include identified photographs whenever possible. A feature that we have included in a few issues is the Virtual Tour that highlights an ARCS repository. If you are interested in featuring your repository in an upcoming issue, please contact Lisa Jacobson for more details at Ljacobson@Maryknoll.org.
